The webcam world has evolved so much over the last decade that it has become nothing short of revolutionary. With the ability to log on and create one on one connections and fulfill fantasies with real people from across the globe, there is no wonder how it got so grand, so fast. For the viewers, it creates a unique atmosphere.

Aside from the authentic connection, it also makes a fun career choice for the creative, sexually free entrepreneurs of the world, thus making it a force that is single-handedly changing the industry forever. Before the webcam domination began, adult film stars were the only highlight of the adult industry.

Over time, adult conventions became a mixture of both pornstars and camgirls. The spotlight has slowly been shifted to shine on those who offer a connection much deeper than just the "live" aspect.

Being able to get to know the girls you fantasize about and develop quality friendships with them filled a void that had long been empty within porn itself. Today, we hear about camgirls in mainstream media like films and TV shows more and more. It has been a steady climb to the top, but one thing is for certain: the camgirl and her lasting impression are here to stay!

MY 1. Of all the custom requests you've received in your cam room can you tell us a few examples of things you've had to say no to?

AG Well, as we all know members are quite creative when it comes to their fantasies. I have had a variety of requests that I unfortunately have had to deny, typically taboo requests such as urine, race play, or age play. When I first started camming I said to myself that for my own mental and emotional wellness I wouldn't engage in any activities that I myself wouldn't do in my own bedroom. I definitely think when models begin to push their own personal boundaries inevitably there is some emotional and mental impact it has on them long term. So for my own personal longevity in the business. I choose to politely decline those requests or perhaps refer them to a model that I believe will be better suited for their particular fantasy play.

2. After being a hard-working camgirl for 2 and a half years, how would you describe the way it has changed since the day you started?

Camming is definitely a lifestyle change, especially if you are a full time model on a competitive platform with new beautiful charismatic models logging on everyday. You are constantly looking for new and innovative ways to make everything fun, different, and engaging. It becomes a pretty big part of your life along with your members and the relationships you build with them. Camming has allowed me to be in full control of my time, my finances, my creativity, and my success. Not many individuals in this day and age have that flexibility to work when they please for however long they desire, with little to no cap on their financial success. But most importantly, I believe that camming has allowed me to grow emotionally & sexually. By interacting with members from all walks of life, I have learned a lot about myself both emotionally and sexually. Things I would not have thought were enjoyable, I have found that I truly enjoy. I have learned that the importance of acceptance from everyone is not something I need in my life as the ones that do care show that support and love day in and day out, accept me just exactly as I am.

3. Many camgirls are unsure about how to break the boundary, and tell their family/friends/partner about their line of work. Was that easy or a struggle for you? And how did you manage to open up?

This is a tough one. I think for almost every model this is something we all struggle with, not because we are uncomfortable with our career choice, but we fear that our personal choice may affect our loved ones. We do not want to hurt or disappoint them or have them be criticized for our life choices. I am lucky enough that my loved ones do truly care about my happiness and my success. The burden of carrying the secret around really weighed on me, so when I accepted that this was something I really wanted to pursue, I just sat them down and told them. I almost cried and threw up at the same time, but I knew whatever the outcome was that I would find a way to deal. I can particularly reference some of the conversation I had with my mom and a few of the questions were, 1. Are you abusing drugs or alcohol? 2. Do I need to call a lawyer? 3. Are you in some kind of trouble? and obviously when I answered all of the questions and the answers were NO, she said "Well then whatever it is I love you regardless, you are my daughter that will never change. Just do your best to protect yourself & your privacy". I think when you hear that from your loved ones it gives you the confirmation that your profession is irrelevant to the unconditional love they have for you.

Robin Mae

1. Looking back on the day you started cam, what do you remember viscerally about those moments as a beginner?

RM It was surreal. I had done plenty of research and watched girls cam, but streaming for the first few times was pretty wild. On my first night I remember putting on the sexiest outfit i owned, taking lots of deep breaths and taking two shots of tequila since I was nervous as fuck for my first show. It turned out great though! I was lucky to have a lot of genuinely nice guys in my room that night, and actually made a pretty solid amount of money while having lots of fun doing it. I'm glad I did my research first. I feel like it helped me navigate being a little fish in the big pond of the webcamming world.

2. People don't always realize that camgirls are performing for hundreds and sometimes thousands of viewers every night. This makes your job particularly unique because it's as if you are selling tickets to your show every night as an underground superstar. How do you deal with the pressure of having to perform with so many people watching?

For me, the more people watching, the better! I find that when there are a lot of viewers in my cam room it really almost relieves some of the pressure of performing. A full room helps with the momentum of the show since people are more likely to tip and talk, which in turn makes my room a more comfortable place for everyone. It is tough though, knowing there are so many anonymous eyes on you. I find that it helps to just not take yourself so seriously. One thing people seem to love about camgirls is the "realness" factor, most of us cam from our own homes and it's all live and in the moment. There are going to be slip ups, embarrassing moments, & emotions of all sorts. Real life is gonna happen and I think embracing it and going with the flow is the best thing you can do. And when the pressure gets to be too much, there's always the option of logging offline.

3. Can you walk us through the most exciting night you've ever had on cam?

In my 3 years camming i'm happy to say there have been a lot of exciting nights for me. I think my favorite to date is a birthday show I had been planning out for a while. I put in so much effort into advertising it, decorating, making care packages, and just generally trying to create a fun show and it really paid off. All of my regulars showed up & participated and it felt really good to just be so loved and supported especially when I had put so much of my heart into the show.

“For me, the more people watching, the better!”

Salena Storm

1. What advice would you give to other camgirls who are looking to set the perfect atmosphere in their cam rooms?

SS The advice I would give other camgirls who are looking to set a perfect atmosphere in their rooms would be, first and foremost you should just be yourself. Your cam room should be a reflection of your personality. Your room needs to be a safe & comfortable place for you in order to attract the right members. I never compromise what I'm uncomfortable with for tokens, which I think helps when trying to achieve a perfect atmosphere. However, like any work environment, I'm not sure if a "perfect" atmosphere actually exists.

2. Although the adult industry contains many different career types, there is always an undeniable divide between pornstars and camgirls. Why do you think that is?

Having done both, I think there is an undeniable divide between camgirls & pornstars because there is a lack of understanding. Camming and porn seem similar but are actually extremely different.

3. When it comes to balancing both your online lifestyle and your personal lifestyle, do you feel you have to live a double life? And if yes, how do you do that?

When it comes to balancing my online life and my personal life I don't feel I live a double life because I share most of my life with my members. Some I consider my good friends. As far as balancing life both on and offline, that's still something I'm working at and hopefully one day I'll get there!

“I share most of my life with my members.”

OddRosebud

“When a camgirl is happy, others feed off of that energy and a lot of fun can be had.”

MV 1. What rules do you set for yourself to make sure you stay active with your career and remain consistent everyday?

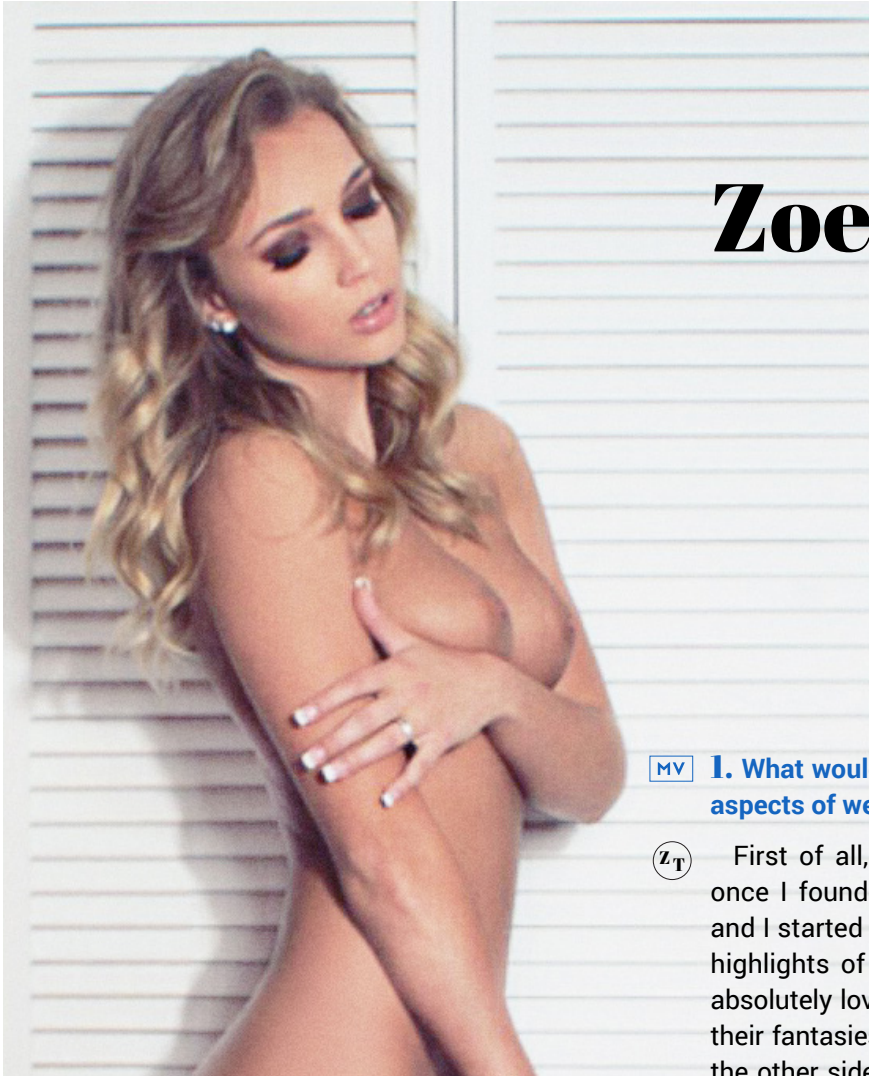

Odd I don't really set any rules for myself in regard to camming, except to be happy. When a camgirl is happy, others feed off of that energy and a lot of fun can be had. If I think it's going to be an unpleasant experience to cam on any particular day, I simply don't log on. I don't want to feed any negative energy or give anyone a bad experience in the room.

2. Being a cam model without a doubt helps you build character and get to know yourself on multiple levels. What are some of the important things you have learned on your journey so far?

Through my time on cam, I've explored myself both sexually and emotionally. The most important thing I've learned, however, is to find balance. Work, health, relationships, family, and long term goals can be difficult to juggle. Camming has given me the happiness and flexibility to try and fail and try again, slowly but surely leading me to live the most fulfilling and enjoyable way possible.

3. How would you say that being a camgirl has changed your sex life and why?

My journey as a camgirl has without a doubt changed my sex life for the better. Being deeply involved in the fantasies of so many different types of people has given me insight on fetishes and kinks that I would have never considered before. It's amazing to meet members who are so eager to share their sexual passions and ideas, because that excitement can help open you up to new and amazing experiences.

Zoey Taylor

1. What would you say are the best aspects and hardest aspects of webcamming and why?

First of all, I love webcamming! I didn't used to, but once I found a website I loved everything just clicked, and I started having all kinds of fun with y'all. One of the highlights of camming for me involve private shows. I absolutely love one on one time with a fan. I get to make their fantasies come true and get to know the person on the other side of the screen as opposed to just having a full room of strangers. Another part I love is the feeling of accomplishment when I hit my goal for the night. People may not know it, but webcamming can be hard work and hitting my goal is a big reassurement and helps keep me coming back to the screen! There aren't many from my point of view, but one con to webcamming is the stigma attached to sex work. A lot of people simply won't accept or want to understand what you do for a living. Of course this applies to any type of sex work, but if you're a free spirit and an independent thinker like me it won't bother you.

2. In terms of the industry, which direction do you think it's headed and where are you hoping to see it go next?

Just like porn, I think that the webcam industry is heading into virtual reality. I have already heard rumors of a virtual reality blowjob that will translate through the screen to the customer where the webcam girl controls what he feels. This is incredibly exciting to me. Sign me up! I love being in control!

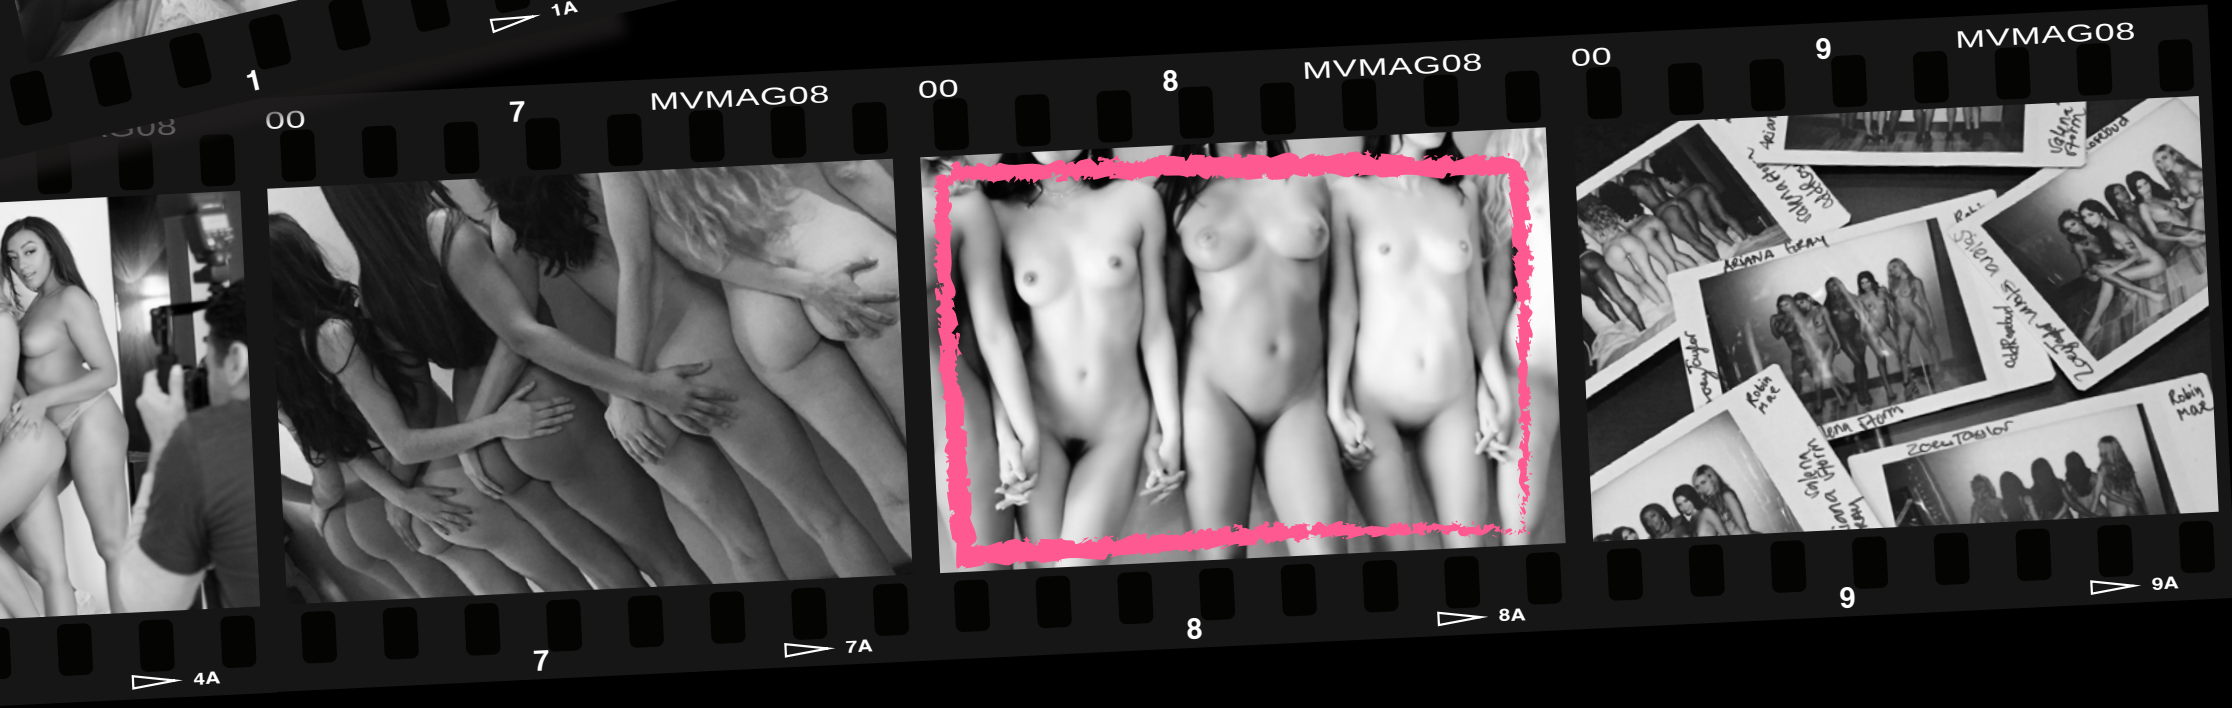

"I absolutely love one on one time with a fan."

3. You spend a lot of dedicated time in your cam room with your loyal supporters. What are the top 3 sexiest things that have ever happened in your room?

The "sexiest" incidents have definitely happened during my private shows. This is part of the reason why I love private webcam shows so much. One time I took a new buttplug in my ass that was huge! I didn't think I could handle it, but with my customer talking dirty with me, I was able to get turned on enough for it. My first foot job was also in a private show. I love trying new things and being taught what to do. I'm a fast learner! New is always exciting. Now I give POV foot jobs in privates all the time. The sexiest show for me however was during a golden ticket show (this is where members pay to get a ticket to an exclusive show not open to the public). I did a shower show! I loved getting all covered in bubbles and then letting the warm water rinse me off.

Digital Divas: From Street Smart to Tweet Smart

WORDS BY Christine Andrews

It's a small world and, with the advent of the Internet, nowadays it's smaller than ever. Journalists and soldiers on assignment in strange lands can now enjoy a virtual dinner with their loved ones thanks to services like Skype. Students in the Congo can read a Canadian blog in live time and subscribe to a virtual stranger's YouTube channel from continents away.

That we are now able to captivate and communicate with an audience without the assistance of “professionals” is what allows modern-day celebrities a never-before-seen freedom and control over their careers. We’ve replaced managers with moderators and social strategists with social media, through which we can expertly publicize carefully crafted personas that we will present to the world from the comfort of our homes. Despite the editing, filtering, and overall gloss that goes into creating an image suitable for public consumption, the public face of today’s celebs are still infinitely more authentic than that which an agent, publicist, or manager would have presented to the world just a few short years ago in the hopes of securing lucrative contracts with studios and brands. In the not-so-distant past, aspiring celebs were under excruciating pressure to maintain a certain reputation that would conform to a projected ideal oftentimes in direct opposition to their own values and interests. Molding oneself in such strict alignment with the interests of people who literally see you as a walking orifice by which to line their pockets is a surefire way to lose yourself, and any porn star from the old regime will attest to the crushing pressure of keeping sponsors happy and pleasing the brands representing them. If that isn’t enough to burn you out, the percentage of your earnings that end up being distributed to everyone from agents to consultants to publicists will quickly sour your views on the industry. The camgirl has altogether rejected these notions and created a business model that is all her own. The generation before her learned the hard way that endorsements pay the bills: if you got dropped from the roster you might as well have been dropped off the face of the planet. Consequently, they depended a great deal on studio representation. Today’s theme is, simply put: “fuck ‘em”.

When the movie Aliens came out I remember thinking the scene where Ripley/Sigourney Weaver is talking to a colleague in live-time over a mammoth-sized monitor the size of a microwave was ridiculously far-fetched, even for a sci-fi flick. Just one short generation later and Facetime, Skype and the like are a routine part of life. No longer is sophisticated technology limited to the upper echelons or to governments, to NASA scientists and computer “geeks”. Today the average American middle class household owns an average of 1.5 devices per person with almost everyone having their very own gadget. Everything from your TV package to your coffee is entirely customizable and porn is no different.

“ Today's theme is, simply put: "fuck 'em" ”

The world is literally at our fingertips and one huge advantage we gain as a result of all this technology is the ability to connect with literally anyone who has an online presence. Human connections, whether real or imagined, are arguably the foundations of longevity, society and success alike. Any lawyer worth his salt will tell you that a defendant needs to be relatable to stand a chance at a Not Guilty verdict, and we all know that a salesman needs to be sociable and charming to sell his wares. No one knows this better than the camgirl, who understands that an erection does not always trump a connection. Being able to fulfill the all-too-human craving for closeness from worlds away is a daily occurrence in her line of work.

Today’s generation will learn how to operate a tablet and access a wi-fi network before they learn how to tie their shoes. Those coming up in this whirlwind of flashing screens will master the language of emojis before they learn their ABC’s and there is no precedent in place by which to surmise how we, as mere humans, will process this progress, no established groundwork as to how our comparatively primitive brains will adapt to these monumental advances in technology or how we will learn to occasionally tune out a world that never shuts off. With this digital revolution comes the pressure to adapt and, as always, survival is contingent on evolution. The very infrastructure of telecommunication has been swiftly uprooted by a progression so pronounced it has infiltrated every imaginable sector, from film to finance to farming, but perhaps none more so than the world of adult film, transformed almost overnight in the resulting wave of DIY everything. Here we have watched in awe as amateur camgirls with no prior industry experience thrive, grow and expand their content, fan bases and range before our very eyes. We follow their transformations from behind our screens as they build empires from behind theirs. Pornography’s rising stars are launching their careers in the comfort of their bedrooms, dominating a notoriously cutthroat and and all-too-often sinister trade that they are gleefully turning on its head. Self-made, self- taught and self-reliant, they are redefining sex work. A relatively new addition to an age-old profession, the camgirl has literally rebuilt the industry by knocking it on its ass and reconstructing it from the ground up. In a profession that has remained stagnant for far too long, she is a refreshing change of pace. Tenacious, vivacious, versatile and full of resolve, she has created a niche for herself that is nothing short of remarkable and she is trampling society’s notions of modern-day sex work.

“ Self-made, self- taught and self-reliant, they are redefining sex work. ”

Today’s aspiring adult performers learn how to image and market themselves while exercising full control of their output, and they can do so without ever casting a glance at a script or a casting couch. Fully independent, they are their own publicist, producer, accountant, director, stylist, editor, and manager. In the Age of the App there is no longer a need for the old order and they are free to reject the suffocating hierarchy of worlds past. Modern-day entertainers assume the roles previously outsourced to strangers and as a result they are learning not only their best angles and which equipment and programs to use but also how to strategize , promote and finance their visions, and ultimately how to build a brand. A master of all crafts, the camgirl seamlessly maneuvers from filming to bookkeeping to networking, all the while setting her own boundaries and enjoying the freedom to control her shoots, sets, content , pricing and schedule. Today’s entrepreneurs of the camming world learn to master software programs and navigate multiple platforms and interfaces through which they can promote and sell their material as they establish and maintain a fanbase.

Empowerment. Freedom. Autonomy. Positive self-image. Not words normally associated with sex work. Camgirls are creating a new precedent and they are nothing short of pioneers as they smash through ceilings and use the pieces to pave a new path for the eager debutantes of adult film. In this new epoch of sex work, the power dynamic shifts to the performer as she defines her own parameters and pursues her own projects, obliterating barriers with ingratiating ease. Nihilating preconceptions and ushering in this new wave of self-employed starlets are sprightly and strategic women of all denominations, body types, skill sets and backgrounds. They are the new faces of the adult industry, faces that have been illuminated by the soft glow of a computer screen since infancy. They have rejected the status quo and made headway in an industry that has been largely inert for years.

Gone are the days where you would hope to be discovered by a talent scout at the mall or dream of being picked up by a modelling agency or signed by a label. Those seeking fame and stardom can find it all by themselves on platforms like YouTube and Instagram. It only takes one post to get picked up, gain traction and go viral. A video that you made years ago and forgot all about can be picked up by a celebrity or media outlet and change your life in an instant. Tonight you can go to bed as an average Joe and wake up famous. Welcome to the world of do- it -yourself everything, or, as Dave Chapelle so succinctly puts it, "Welcome to the age of spin". From YouTube musicians to Instagram models to bloggers-turned-published-authors, gone are the days of grueling auditions and the dependence of your success on the approval of others. Succeed you will in this day and age as long as you gain the approval of the audience. Gone is the 15 minutes of fame that once took 15 years to cultivate. In this time of memes 15 years of fame is no rare feat as celebrities continue to reinvent themselves and stay in the spotlight, a spotlight they expertly shine on themselves as they maintain relevancy in 15 second spurts of perfectly executed soundbites and Snapchat stories. If you have a webcam you have what it takes to be the next big thing. Fame in the post-internet world never fully dies as nothing we put on the world-wide-web is ever truly gone. It's always the right place at the right time on the Internet.

As fans, we now enjoy a decidedly more authentic access to our idols, who no longer speak through censors and press agents. Today we are provided a more intimate glimpse into the lives of celebrities each time they allow us to tag along on their coffee runs on FB Live or invite us into their homes by posting a Snapchat story. Writing fan letters that you knew would never cross the eyes of the intended recipient and getting a mass-generated generic response in your mailbox was thrilling back in the day, but woefully inadequate compared to the preferred fan mail of today: Twitter, on which we are regaled with the minute details of celebrity life and granted direct access to our idols. Extinct are the paid mouthpieces that used to speak on behalf of Joe Celeb, the days of handlers and fan clubs. We are all just an Internet connection and a mouse click away from finding out where our favorite celebrities do their banking or what brand of oatmeal they prefer.

What camgirls bring to the mix, what they instinctively knew before the rest of us, is that the allure of voyeurism cannot be overstated. By selling authentic, customized content, offering services such as Skype shows and texting packages like KIK, and by customizing promotions such as funds through which fans can make donations to help purchase the very imagery they will later enjoy (from outfits to sex machines to a new pair of breasts), they are allowing viewers more involvement than ever before and a sense of contribution that you simply cannot get with “traditional” porn. Camgirls instinctively understand that connection is key.

Inaugural to the growth of the DIY celeb is the camgirl, the unlikely poster child of the self-made success story. A young lady belting out tunes to her webcam from her bedroom makes a hopeful starlet with stage fright and no connections in the industry realize that she, too, can skip the middleman and connect where it counts: directly with her fans. And it's those fans that will make her famous by promoting her page, sharing her statuses and re-tweeting her messages, not the record labels or the media. This trend is particularly true for cam models, who enjoy the creative control to build their own brands. An added bonus is that she does not need to fit neatly into one genre or box; the only labels she will need are for the tags to her content, which she controls, shoots, prices and, if so desired, even “leaks” herself.

In the highly competitive flesh factories of the old school, studio actresses would often comply with requests they were uncomfortable with just to get their names “out there” in the hopes that once a fan base was established they could enjoy the “luxury” to control their output and select their own content as opposed to being at the whim of a director's wishes. Camgirls have flipped this notion on its head. They are living proof that control over one's career and a certain level of comfort is a right, not a privilege. More and more, adult actresses are standing their ground and refusing to compromise their integrity or adjust their standards to appease a third party. No longer willing to jeopardize their own goals to help build someone else's empire, they have come to realize that they no longer need anyone but their fans in order to make a name for themselves. Free to pursue fetishes of their own choosing, they can easily pursue cross-promotional opportunities all by themselves and create their own content and communities. The camgirl understands that there is no longer a reason to settle for the smallest piece of a pie baked with the fruits of her hard-earned labor, let alone allow others to decide the direction of her career.

Today we all have our very own Truman show, broadcast in live time over social media for all the world to see. If the camgirl is any indication of things to come, we will soon see a social shift from dependency and the need for outside validation to a movement of self-sufficiency as we build our futures in our own vision, free to evolve, thrive and truly let our creative juices flow as we go ;)

Why You Should Get It On This Easter

MODEL:
Luubeam

“You know the saying,
‘fucking like bunnies?’”

Easter is commonly known as a holiday that celebrates the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead. But let's not kid ourselves. For most of us Easter is about chocolate bunnies, eggs, and having a day off. So when we look at all the things that have to do with Easter, it makes us wonder: what do bunnies and eggs have anything to do with Jesus?

Well, the roots behind Easter are quite complex, and there are things about Easter that can't be explained with its Christian tradition alone. So it starts to make a bit more sense when you begin to examine another element that is closely associated with Easter: the theme of fertility.

For instance, Easter also has possible roots in the Germanic Goddess Eostre. Eostre is a goddess of fertility. Ergo, scholars have speculated that Easter started as a celebration of the goddess since April marks the coming of spring, the rebirth of life. In fact, most scholars believe that the name Easter comes from the name of the goddess.

Which brings us to the topic of Easter bunnies. Bunnies are widely known as traditional symbols of fertility. You know the saying, 'fucking like bunnies?' That's because bunnies are actually super fertile. Female bunnies don't go through an estrous cycle, and instead ovulation is induced by intercourse. Meaning they are pretty much ready to mate all the time. What's more, female bunnies can actually conceive a second litter of offspring while still being pregnant with the first.

On another note, the animal symbol of the Goddess Eostre has been said to be a bunny, so that might also be the reason.

Eggs are also a classic symbol of fertility and rebirth, because in case you've forgotten, eggs aren't just your staple breakfast food. They hatch out chicks (just as a reminder, we mean baby birds). So that may also be a part of why we celebrate Easter with boiled eggs. And it feels more understandable when you think of it this way. Despite the dates always changing, Easter is always celebrated during the beginning of springtime. It is the end of winter. Life is beginning anew. So to have this theme of fertility feels right.

So, in our humble opinion, what activity would befit this merry holiday? Well, fertility, bunnies having coitus... If the hints weren't obvious enough, it's sex. And since you have that long weekend, this is perfect.

In conclusion, feel free to get it on this Easter, because goddess-forbid you forget to celebrate your fertility (of course, do be safe if you're not planning for any children). Embrace the bunny inside you and get humpin'.

As a camgirl, you have grown accustomed to the influx of members in your room who try to hit on you. You've heard every story, pick-up line, or attempt to swoon you a thousand times over. It gets repetitive but you deal with it because these are the guys who support you, and you adore them. It's a slow Sunday night in your cam room and you don't want to get offline because you are genuinely enjoying the company of your regulars. All of a sudden, a new premium member enters and begins chatting you up. You are bored so you decide to humor him and respond. After a few back and forth messages, he tips you enough to send you into a shock! You react by:

A Screaming! You can't contain your excitement so you begin jumping up and down and thanking your new online hero!

✓ B Play it cool. You want him to know you are grateful but don't want to seem too nerdy!

NB I'm a huge mix of both the excited giddy girl and that "play it cool" nerd~ I guess it would depend on my mood and the night! If I'm genuinely enjoying my room then HELL YASSS I'll get super excited and probably do a dance that would be so dorky you'd die! Ahahahhaha my BIG Tippers aka My VIPs are my lifeblood and I spoil them rotten! & I love when newbies join the team.

MV 2

He wants you to see what he looks like but you have no desire to pursue any sort of relationships online so normally say no to this type of request. He tips you with a note asking you to kindly view his cam and you:

✓ A Do it! Out of boredom and curiosity. You just want to see the face of the guy who goes out of his way to make you smile this much.

B Take a quick peek but quickly close the cam so he doesn't get the wrong idea.

I have no issue viewing guys on cam2cam AT ALL, as long as they tip, I love seeing a friendly face.

MV 3

OMG! He is sooo fucking hot! The perfect haircut matched with dark mesmerizing eyes, he is laying on his bed wearing a T-shirt of your favorite band and you can tell that his hands are dirty from working all day at the construction site! If this were real life, you'd admit he is totally your type. You:

A Start to get excited thinking about the things that could possibly happen between you and this perfect and beautiful creature!

✓ B Hope he sticks around long enough to get to know you because you can imagine yourself having amazing conversation and connection with this person.

I have a strict "I don't date fans/customers" policy and YES I have run into some B.E.A.utiful creatures online before so it's painful sometimes but it takes more than being "awesome" on the surface for me. To be honest I just try to create an awesome cam-relationship a little VGE, maybe exchange numbers... I'm planning a VIP Fan Trip this year so if this was a real situation I'd DEF invite him but only as eye/arm candy if everything checked out with him xoxo.

MV 4

A few months, a gazillion tips and tons of gifts from your wish list later, you two feel like you've known each other forever! He comes into your room very often hoping to make your day brighter and he normally does. He wants to take you "private" so he can have you all to himself and you:

✓ A Go private because you LOVE one on one time as opposed to a room full of strangers at once!

B Are excited to get in there and show him some sexy things he bought you that you've been waiting to try on for him.

I love one on one time with my VIPs, I try to encourage Skype or at least plan chill time instead of it being random and maybe messing up the flow of my room. I always tell my guys to simply DM me while I'm live and ask ~ like I said spoil me and I'll spoil YOU!

MV 5

Talking about meeting each other and the things you would do to each other plays out an amazing sexual fantasy for you both. Although you may never really meet, it's so much fun for you to share this world where you can indulge in your sexual fantasies and play them out online without any repercussions. Your favorite thing to talk about during private shows together is:

✓ A The way he is going to devour your body and please you on many levels at once. He talks about getting to know you sexually and being able to make you cum endlessly and you love that.

B Pleasing him. You feel like, after all he has done for you, the thought of being able to please him and leave him fulfilled is satisfying for you. You love to give!

The best way to keep me wet and wanting more is to talk about how much I turn you on and what you want to do to me!! So yes! The way you're going to devour my body and please me on every level is all I NEED AND WANT to hear!

MV 6

You wake up one day in a terrible mood because you haven't been able to cam much lately thanks to being sick. You check your email and you received a tip to your "Fund Me" on ManyVids of $1200! It's from him. He knows you have struggled this month. He also sent you a message that says: "I know it's been tough. Here. Pay your rent and let me know if you want to come see me - I'll pay your ticket.". You:

✓ A love the fact that he cares so much about you and you reply straight away to thank him and express your gratitude for this humble being! You may not want to meet him yet, but still, want to know why is he the greatest ever!?!

B contemplate taking him up on his offer. You really could picture yourself meeting this guy and know it would be a great time. You know him so well. This doesn't have to remain a fantasy so why not?

Aw I'd cry ~ I love a guy who understands that this is a hard job to keep going strong and something like paying a cam model's rent is literally EVERYTHING! I'm not sure I'd hop on a plane straight away but I feel like he would understand. For me it's all about getting to know that person and seeing how they conduct themselves over a long period of time. I have 3 Customers I'm meeting this year for the first time ever and two I've known for 2 years so I'm very excited but we speak every day and they know where they stand relationship wise.

I'm Kaira, but you can call me Creep! I'm a delightfully awkward, spooky, carefree, "never takes herself too seriously", nerdy girl next door. I have an outrageous giggle, and usually have my face glued to some retro video game, or horror film. I love to adventure during all hours of the night because that's where the fun happens! Whether you come to me for bad jokes, to learn horrible dance moves, or to watch me get crazy, you are sure to leave questioning what really turns you on yet wanting much more! I love exploring fantasies and the sexuality of others has been surprisingly rewarding and fun. I love my amazing "Creepling" family and there's not much I wouldn't do for them!
